

March 16, 2020

Weldaloy Specialty Forgings
24011 Hoover Rd.
Warren, MI 48089

Dear Customer,

Many people have been asking about how the COVID-19 situation has affected Weldaloy Specialty Forgings. We want to let you know that all is well. We are seeing no negative affects with our employees or with our suppliers in any way. We have and will continue to be proactive in seeking information from our suppliers—especially from overseas raw material suppliers. At this point, all of our suppliers have responded very positively. We currently have no suppliers that are seeing or expecting any types of delays. Of course, this is subject to change and if it does, we will notify you immediately. At this point, our production schedules will continue with business as usual.

Weldaloy Specialty Forgings has made some minor changes as suggested by the CDC to reduce any potential impact that the virus may have. We are limiting visitors to our office and shop while doing everything we can to promote good hygiene and prevent the spread of the virus at our campus. At this time, we are not experiencing any reductions in our business that would have any impact on you, our customer.

Similarly, and because we see each of you as partners, we are interested in ensuring the health of our business as it relates the health of your business. If you have any foreseeable risk that could affect Weldaloy Specialty Forgings in any way, please notify us immediately. We would greatly appreciate it. Any facility closing, staff/work reductions, or supply chain issues not related to Weldaloy that could affect program schedules, or anything that could limit or stop supply of our product to you, we would certainly like to know about as quickly as possible.

Regards,

Kurt Ruppenthal
Vice President and General Manager
586-758-5550
k.ruppenthal@weldaloy.com